NEWSLETTER FEBRUARY 2012

THE STORY SO FAR...

ACT 1

The Baillieu Government election in November 2010 promised intellectually disabled Victorians a real alternative at Kew.

The Kew Cottages Public Meeting in February 2011 welcomed the Baillieu Election Promise and called on the Premier to:

- Scrap the Government's Kew Cottages Redevelopment Contract with Walker Corporation;
- Impose an immediate moratorium on further Kew Cottages Public Land sales by the Victorian Government.

But the Government failed to deliver

Promise	Performance
Lift the veil of secrecy on Kew Development Contract arrangements	Failed
Insist on developer fulfilling all its contractual obligations including preservation of 40% of the site as open space and	Failed
Restore the recreation building that was demolished in breach of contract. (The Hamer Centre)	Failed
Support the Kew Coalition 5 Point Plan*	Failed
Refer Kew Cottages Development to Anti-Corruption Commission by July 2011	Failed

The next instalment in one of Melbourne's most contentious Major Projects

ACT 2

The Baillieu Government's Plan for the Remaining 15 Hectares of Public Land surrounding Kew Cottages has failed.

But, the Government still owns the land.

So will the Premier now act before it is too late ?

What Needs to Be Done

MOTIONS TO BE PUT TO THE 16th FEBRUARY 2012 KEW PUBLIC MEETING

1. The Meeting calls on The Honourable, Andrew McIntosh, MP for Kew, to at the next sitting of State Parliament repeat and implement his March 2010 request to the Premier of Victoria. Namely:

The action I am seeking is for the Premier to halt this redevelopment until he can provide the promised financial benefits to the services for the disabled, given that 27 hectares of prime Crown land, dedicated to the care of the disabled, is being permanently alienated from public ownership. (Hansard 11.3.10)

2. This Meeting calls on the Honourable Ted Baillieu, Premier of Victoria, to urgently instruct his Ministers to take all necessary action to ensure that his Government's Kew Cottages Election Promise is honoured without further delay.
